

Times we need confirmed

The itinerary we propose to run from 22 to 26 December, with the agreed adjustments: Cejar moves to the morning of the 23rd as the acclimatization, Quito and Valle de la Muerte go together on the afternoon of the 24th, and the 26th is left free. No day carries more than two outings.

THE 6 ADJUSTMENTS

Everything else stays on the day and time the client has already seen in the system.

1 Cejar can only be operated in the afternoon

Agencies cannot enter Cejar in the morning, so the 10:15 departure we had built does not exist. It runs Wednesday 23 from 15:30 to 19:30, the slot the operator proposed.

The idea of the 23rd being a quiet day still holds: the morning carries only two hours at Quito and there are almost four free hours before heading out to the salt flat.

2 Vallecito leaves at 17:00, and so it moves to the 24th

The operator warns that leaving at 17:30 does not allow doing it properly: the latest is 17:00, and the excursion runs 17:00 to 21:00.

With that, Cejar (15:30 – 19:30) and Vallecito (17:00 – 21:00) overlap and can no longer share a day. Cejar stays on the 23rd — that way the 21:00 astronomy has an hour and a half of buffer — and Vallecito moves to the 24th.

3 The astronomy goes back to shared and to the 23rd

The private tour on the 24th costs CLP 600,000 for the group. The shared one already quoted is CLP 40,000 per person, and it is the night Segar asked about: it lands on the 23rd, 21:00 to 23:00.

Something worth knowing beforehand: that night the moon is 99.9% illuminated, and the 24th is the same. Switching nights changes nothing, so the right move is for the guide to aim it at the moon and planets.

4 Quito goes on the morning of the 23rd, and bills separately

The operator makes clear that Quito and the sandboarding are two separate excursions, even done within the same half day. Since the 26th has to stay free and both afternoons go to Cejar and Vallecito, the only gap left is the morning of the 23rd.

Two hours a step from the village, so it does not weigh on the settling-in day.

5 The transfers take 1 h 45

Not the long hour we had. It changes both ends of the trip: on the 22nd you reach the hotel at 20:00 rather than 19:15, and on the 26th the transfer moves up to 10:00 to reach Calama at 11:45, two hours before the 13:44 flight.

6 What Segar has to decide: the time of the Christmas Eve dinner

Vallecito ends at 21:00 and dinner was set for 20:00. Either dinner moves to 21:30 — which for Christmas Eve in Chile is the normal hour — or Valle de la Luna cannot go on the 24th, and it would have to come out of the programme: there is no other afternoon for it.

The transfer to dinner is no longer needed: Segar confirmed they will use the hotel shuttle.

THE FULL DAY, HOUR BY HOUR

The 9 highlighted blocks are the services we operate. The rest — flights, meals, check-in and free time — are in grey, purely so the whole day is visible and every time makes sense in context.

TUESDAY 22 DECEMBER Arrival in San Pedro

1 service of ours

15:33
17:41 Flight Santiago → Calama (CJC) · LATAM

UNCHANGED

18:15
20:00 Transfer Calama → San Pedro de Atacama

MOVED

The operator calculates the transfer at 1 h 45, not the hour we had: you reach the hotel at 20:00, not 19:15. Departure from the airport at 18:15, 35 minutes after the flight lands.

20:00
21:00 Arrival and check-in at the hotel · rest of the evening free

UNCHANGED

WEDNESDAY 23 DECEMBER Quitor, salt flat and stars

3 services of ours

09:30
11:30 Pukará de Quitor · guided

MOVED

With the 26th free and Cejar taking the afternoon, the morning of the 23rd is the only gap left for Quitor. Two gentle hours a step from the village, so it does not spoil the settling-in day.

11:30
15:15 Lunch and rest at the hotel

UNCHANGED

15:30
19:30 Laguna Cejar · floating at Laguna Piedra + Ojos de Tebenquiche + Tebenquiche Lagoon

MOVED

It runs in the afternoon because agencies cannot operate Cejar in the morning. The time is the one the operator proposed. The relaxed-morning idea still holds: the 23rd starts late with only two hours of Quitor before it.

19:30
21:00 Back to the hotel, shower and rest

NEW

An hour and a half between leaving the salt water and heading out under the sky.

21:00
23:00

Astronomy tour · shared

MOVED

Back to the 23rd and to the shared format, which is what was quoted: CLP 40,000 per person against the CLP 600,000 for the group the private tour costs on the 24th. It is also the night Segar asked about.

THURSDAY 24 DECEMBER Puritama, dunes and Valle de la Luna

This is what has already been confirmed to Segar for the 24th. It chains into Valle de la Luna, which sits right next door, with half an hour in between.

17:00
21:00

Valle de la Luna South · Vallecito at sunset

MOVED

It leaves at 17:00 because the operator warns that at 17:30 there is no longer time to do it properly. And it moves to the 24th because Cejar takes the 23rd: both are afternoon excursions and cannot share a day.

21:30

Christmas Eve dinner

SEGAR DECIDES

Segar has to confirm this. It was at 20:00, but Vallecito ends at 21:00. Either dinner moves to 21:30 — which for Christmas Eve in Chile is the normal hour — or Valle de la Luna cannot go on the 24th. No transfer from us: they take the hotel shuttle.

FRIDAY 25 DECEMBER Altiplano

1 service of ours

08:00
18:00

Altiplano · Laguna Chaxa, Toconao, Miscanti and Piedras Rojas

UNCHANGED

With Chaxa in, the operator runs it 08:00 to 18:00 and the 25 December rate lands at CLP 270,000 per person, against the 210,000 quoted. They tell us they do not recommend it: it makes for a very long day. Drop Chaxa and it gets shorter and cheaper.

WHAT WE NEED YOU TO CONFIRM

The first four are cross-cutting; the rest follow the itinerary line by line.

1 Final programme price for 4 travellers

We agreed the quotation carried some alternatives at a Minimum Rate, which applies under 3 travellers and is not the case here. Those alternatives are also out of the final selection. We need the per-person price for the nine chosen services, with the 24th and 25th supplements already included.

2 Christmas Eve and Christmas Day supplements, service by service

For the 25th we already have the figure with Chaxa (CLP 270,000 per traveller). We still need to know whether Puritama, the sandboarding and Vallecito on the 24th carry a supplement.

3 Laguna Chaxa entrance fee

We need the amount to add to the rest of the entrance fees, which all go in advance. And if we end up dropping Chaxa, what the full day becomes in price and timing.

4 Buffer between excursions

You asked us to leave margin for traffic and access controls. In the table we left an hour after Puritama and half an hour between the sandboarding and Vallecito. Tell us if any of it falls short.

5 22 Dec · Transfer Calama → San Pedro de Atacama

Are 35 minutes between the 17:41 landing and the transfer departure enough, or should we leave more?

6 23 Dec · Pukará de Quito · guided

The operator notes Quito and the sandboarding are two separate excursions even within one half day. Here they fall on different days, so they bill separately anyway. Do you confirm 09:30 – 11:30 on the 23rd?

7 23 Dec · Laguna Cejar · floating at Laguna Piedra + Ojos de Tebenquiche + Tebenquiche Lagoon

Confirmed 15:30 – 19:30 on Wednesday the 23rd?

8 23 Dec · Astronomy tour · shared

Does the shared tour run on the night of the 23rd and does CLP 40,000 per person hold? Note: that night the moon is 99.9% illuminated — the 24th is the same, so switching nights changes nothing. Better to have the guide aim it at the moon and planets.

9 24 Dec · Puritama Hot Springs · 3,500 m

Is there a Christmas Eve supplement on Puritama? And is it feasible to be back in San Pedro by 13:30, with the next departure at 14:30?

10 24 Dec · Valle de la Muerte · sandboarding

Can you chain sandboarding 14:30 – 16:30 into Vallecito 17:00 – 21:00 on the same day, with half an hour between? They are in the same area, but the operator asked for buffer and we want it to hold.

11 24 Dec · Valle de la Luna South · Vallecito at sunset

Confirmed 17:00 – 21:00 on the 24th? Is there a Christmas Eve supplement?

12 25 Dec · Altiplano · Laguna Chaxa, Toconao, Miscanti and Piedras Rojas

How much is the Chaxa entrance fee, to add it to the ones bought in advance? And if Chaxa comes out, what do the price and timing become?

13 26 Dec · Transfer San Pedro → Calama

Do you confirm 10:00 hotel pickup to reach Calama at 11:45?

Is the programme feasible at these times? We look forward to closing it and holding the spaces.
