

Argentine Patagonia & Rapa Nui

The two segments you asked for — El Calafate, El Chaltén and Ushuaia in November, Easter Island in December — costed separately, and paced for two travellers who would rather see one thing properly than three things in a hurry.

Mr Shah — your email of 5 August is received, and thank you for the detail in it; it made this an easy brief to work with. You asked us to advise on the start date, so I have: begin on 14 November, not the 15th, and let us put you into Santiago on the evening of the 21st rather than on the 22nd itself. The rest of what follows is your itinerary, with the reasoning for every change set out before the day-by-day so you can accept or reject each one on its own merits. One thing to know before you read the figures: the prices in the two quotations are what the trip costs on the ground — the hotels, the flights, the guides. What you pay Tourevo is separate, fixed, and set out in the three plans near the end.

Warmly, Juan Pablo · Travel Manager, Tourevo

OUR RECOMMENDATIONS & ITINERARY ADJUSTMENTS

Based on your original request, we have made a small number of adjustments — to the start date, to where you sleep, and to which boat you take — in order to give you a calmer travel pace and safer flight connections. Nothing below is a decision we have taken for you. Each one is set out with what you asked for, what we propose instead, and why; tell us which you want and we will re-issue.

1 Start on 14 November — and arrive in Santiago on the 21st, not the 22nd

YOU ASKED	The tour can start on 14 or 15 November — please advise. And: “I need to be in Santiago on the 22nd Nov.”
WE PROPOSE	Start on 14 November . The programme ends with your arrival in Santiago on the evening of Saturday 21 November , leaving Sunday the 22nd entirely clear.
WHY	Ushuaia and El Calafate are two of the most weather-exposed airports in Argentina, and November is the windiest month of the Patagonian spring. Same-day cancellations and re-timings happen. If you start on the 15th, the only way the numbers work is to fly Ushuaia → Buenos Aires → Santiago on the 22nd itself — so a single delayed leg on your last morning would break the one date you cannot move.
BENEFIT	A full spare day protecting your fixed date; a night's rest in Santiago before it; and, because the extra day sits inside the trip rather than at the end of it, a third night in Ushuaia instead of two.
TRADE-OFF	One additional night's accommodation. In our view it is the best-value night in the whole programme.

Safer air connections

Lower operational risk

More time per destination

2 Sleep two nights in El Chaltén rather than day-tripping from El Calafate

YOU ASKED	El Calafate, El Chaltén and Ushuaia, with the most scenic areas around El Chaltén and Mt. Fitz Roy — easy walks of 1 to 2 hours.
WE PROPOSE	2 nights El Calafate · 2 nights El Chaltén · 3 nights Ushuaia. El Chaltén becomes a stay, not an excursion.
WHY	El Chaltén is three hours each way from El Calafate. The standard day trip leaves at 06:30 and returns after 21:00 — thirteen to fourteen hours, six of them seated in a vehicle, with the walking squeezed into the middle of the day when the light is at its flattest. Staying in the village turns one punishing day into two unhurried half-days.
BENEFIT	No pre-dawn start. Fitz Roy from your window at first light and again at dusk — the two hours photographers actually travel for. And the walks are done at your speed, with the option to turn back at any point without losing the day.
TRADE-OFF	Two hotel changes instead of one. We have kept every other base fixed to compensate — you unpack four times in eight days, which is as few as this route allows.

3 The one-hour glacier boat, not the nine-hour one

YOU ASKED	"The Perito Moreno Glacier, the boat trip."
WE PROPOSE	The Perito Moreno full day combined with the one-hour Safari Náutico , which sails from Bajo de las Sombras to within a few hundred metres of the glacier's south face — rather than the all-day Todo Glaciares sailing to Upsala and Spegazzini.
WHY	Two different boats are sold under the same phrase and they are not interchangeable. Todo Glaciares is a fine excursion, but it is roughly nine hours out of Puerto Bandera and it cannot be combined with Perito Moreno on the same day . On a two-night stay, choosing it means giving up the glacier you actually came to see.
BENEFIT	You get both halves of the experience in one comfortable day: the balcony walkways facing the ice wall, and an hour on the water at its foot with the calving audible. Back at the hotel by 18:00.
TRADE-OFF	You will not see the Upsala and Spegazzini glaciers. If you want them, we add a third night in El Calafate — priced in the options table below.

Better price-to-experience

Avoids over-loaded days

Lower physical demand

4 Fly the exit day on one airline, through one Buenos Aires airport

YOU ASKED	Domestic flights included, and to be in Santiago for the 22nd.
WE PROPOSE	Ushuaia → Buenos Aires Aeroparque (AEP) → Santiago, both legs on Aerolíneas Argentinas, on one ticket .
WHY	The obvious alternatives are worse in ways that are not obvious until the day. Most routings land you at Aeroparque and depart from Ezeiza — a 45-to-70-minute road transfer across the city with your luggage, plus a full re-check. Others split the day between two airlines, which means that if the Ushuaia leg is late, the second carrier owes you nothing.
BENEFIT	No airport change, no taxi across Buenos Aires, no re-checking bags — and if the southbound leg runs late, the airline is obliged to re-book you onto the next Santiago service.
TRADE-OFF	It is still a long travel day, roughly nine hours door to door. If you would rather break it, we can insert a night in Buenos Aires on the 20th — see option below. Ushuaia would then drop back to two nights.

5 Isla Martillo: yes — and it has to be held early

YOU ASKED	“Visiting Martillo Island for the penguins (if possible).”
WE PROPOSE	Yes — and specifically the landing version, via Estancia Harberton, held the moment you confirm rather than nearer the date.
WHY	Two products share the name. Most Beagle Channel boats only sail past Isla Martillo; a single licensed operator is permitted to land, and the number of visitors allowed ashore each day is capped by the provincial authority. In the November–December colony season those places are typically gone months ahead. Given that you have already done the Beagle Channel, the sail-past version would add nothing.
BENEFIT	You walk a marked path along the beach with Magellanic penguins either side of you — the colony is at its noisiest in late November — rather than photographing them from fifty metres of water.
TRADE-OFF	Ninety minutes each way, the last stretch on gravel road. The walking itself is flat, slow and about an hour. If the landing permit cannot be secured we will tell you before you pay a peso, and refund that line in full.

Seasonal availability

Not a repeat of what you have done

Low physical demand

6 Easter Island: your structure is right, and we have not touched it

YOU ASKED	4 nights on Easter Island from 3 December, back in Santiago on the 7th, flying home on the 8th.
WE PROPOSE	Exactly that. No change.
WHY	Four nights is the correct length, not a compromise: the Santiago service lands early afternoon and departs mid-afternoon, so you get three complete days plus two useful half-days — which is precisely one full day per archaeological circuit, with none of them doubled up. And your night in Santiago on the 7th is the buffer we would have insisted on anyway. The return leg is nearly five hours over open ocean with no alternate airport; it is the one flight in Chile we never connect on the same day.
BENEFIT	Nothing to fix, nothing to pay for twice. Where a five-night stay would buy you free time, a three-night stay would force two circuits into one day — you have asked for the length that works.

7 How we sequence Rapa Nui — because two of its sites admit you only onceYOU ASKED

Shared guided excursions covering the main archaeological and cultural highlights of Rapa Nui.

WE PROPOSE

Three circuits, one per day, never two: the eastern full day (Rano Raraku and Tongariki), the southern morning (Rano Kau and Orongo), the western morning (Puna Pau, Ahu Akivi and the caves) — with both afternoons after the half-days left free.

WHY

Your national park ticket admits you once to Rano Raraku and once to Orongo, and the ranger scans it at the gate. Itineraries that “pass by” either site on more than one day quietly burn an entry you cannot buy back. Sequencing them into single, unhurried visits is not a stylistic choice — it is the only way to get the full value of the ticket.

BENEFIT

No wasted entries, and real time at Rano Raraku — the quarry where four hundred moai still lie half-carved in the hillside, and the one place everyone wishes they had been given another hour. Two free afternoons in Hanga Roa for the museum, the market and a slow lunch.

DAY BY DAY

SAT 14 NOV Arrival in El Calafate

Night 1 · El Calafate

on arrival Met at El Calafate airport (FTE)

Private transfer, about 25 minutes to town. Your driver waits inside arrivals with a name board.

afternoon Nothing scheduled

Deliberately. You will have flown a long way to get here and the glacier is tomorrow.

optional Laguna Nimez boardwalk

Ten minutes on foot from the hotel: a flat lakeside boardwalk with flamingos, black-necked swans and, at this hour, the light coming off Lago Argentino. An hour, entirely at your own pace. VERY EASY · FLAT

SUN 15 NOV Perito Moreno Glacier, from the balconies and from the water

Night 2 · El Calafate

08:30 Pick-up at the hotel · shared excursion, English-speaking guide

Eighty kilometres west into Los Glaciares National Park, about an hour and a half with a stop at the Curva de los Suspiros — the bend where the glacier appears whole for the first time.

10:30 Safari Náutico · one hour on Lago Rico

From the Bajo de las Sombras pier, out to within a few hundred metres of the glacier's south face. You are close enough to hear it work. Boarding is level, seating is covered, and there is an open deck when you want it. VERY EASY

12:00 The balcony walkways

Several kilometres of steel walkway on four levels facing the sixty-metre ice front. The upper circuit is flat and step-free; the lower levels are reached by staircases and are entirely optional — the best view is from the top, which is the one that costs you nothing.

EASY · STEPS OPTIONAL

18:00 Back in El Calafate

Evening free. We will have booked and briefed a restaurant that does vegetarian properly — see the note at the end.

MON 16 NOV North to El Chaltén, and the first walk

Night 3 · El Chaltén

09:00 El Calafate → El Chaltén

About three hours along the shore of Lago Argentino and the Río La Leona. Not a transfer to endure — this is one of the great drives in Patagonia.

10:45 Hotel La Leona

The 1894 roadhouse where Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid sat out a month. Coffee, a stretch of the legs, and the best cake between the two towns.

12:30 First sight of the Fitz Roy massif

At the viewpoint before the village. If the summit is clear, this is where you stop for it.

13:15 Arrival, lunch, check-in

The afternoon is yours until the light softens.

17:00 Mirador de los Cóndores & Mirador de las Águilas

An hour there and back on a gentle graded path from the edge of the village — the whole Río de las Vueltas valley below you, Fitz Roy and Cerro Torre in front, condors usually overhead. The single best return on effort in El Chaltén. EASY · 1 H · GENTLE RISE

TUE 17 NOV Lago del Desierto and the Río de las Vueltas valleyNight 4 · El Chaltén*08:30 Shared excursion north on Ruta 41 · English-speaking guide

Thirty-seven kilometres up the valley, most of it gravel, along the river and past the Chorrillo del Salto waterfall. Almost all of this day is spent seated and looking out of a window, which is exactly the point.

10:30 Lago del Desierto

A long green lake pressed between forested walls, with the Vespignani Glacier at its head. Optional forty-minute crossing by launch, and a short signed trail through lenga forest to the Huemul Glacier viewpoint. EASY · 40 MIN WALK · OPTIONAL

13:00 Lunch by the water

Vegetarian arranged in advance — this is a small operation with a fixed menu, so we notify them at the time of booking.

17:00 Back in El Chaltén

Evening free. Sunset on Fitz Roy is around 21:00 in mid-November and turns the granite orange for about ten minutes. Worth staying up for; you can watch it from the street.

instead If you would rather do less

We swap this day for a flat one-hour guided walk to the Chorrillo del Salto waterfall and leave the rest of the day free in the village. Same cost, half the movement. Tell us at booking or on the morning.

WED 18 NOV South to Tierra del FuegoNight 5 · Ushuaia

08:30 El Chaltén → El Calafate airport

Three hours and a quarter, direct to the terminal. We build in a full two hours before departure rather than the ninety minutes the airline asks for.

midday El Calafate → Ushuaia

Direct, about an hour and twenty minutes, operating seasonally over your dates. Exact timing confirmed when we hold the seats — see the note on 2026 schedules below.

on arrival Met at Ushuaia airport, transfer to the hotel

Ten minutes. The airport sits on the peninsula in front of the town.

evening Nothing scheduled

A travel day is a travel day. Your hotel is on the port side, three streets from San Martín — dinner is a walk, not a taxi.

THU 19 NOV Tierra del Fuego National Park & the End of the World Train*Night 6 · Ushuaia*09:00 Pick-up · shared excursion, English-speaking guide

West along Ruta 3 to the End of the World station.

10:00 Tren del Fin del Mundo

An hour on the narrow-gauge line the prisoners built to bring timber down from the forest — through the Pipo river canyon and the Cemetery of Trees. Seated throughout, heated, with a stop at La Macarena falls. VERY EASY · SEATED

11:30 The park: Bahía Ensenada, Lago Roca, Laguna Negra

Short flat boardwalks and viewpoints, each ten to twenty minutes, with the vehicle waiting at every one. Beavers, upland geese, austral parakeets. EASY · FLAT BOARDWALKS

13:30 Bahía Lapataia — where Ruta 3 ends

The end of the Pan-American Highway, 3,079 km from Buenos Aires and as far south as a road goes on this continent. The sign is the photograph; the bay behind it is the reason to stay twenty minutes.

16:30 Back in Ushuaia

Afternoon free.

FRI 20 NOV Isla Martillo — ashore with the penguins*Night 7 · Ushuaia*morning Pick-up · shared excursion, English-speaking guide

Ninety minutes east along Ruta 3 and then the gravel Ruta J, through peat bog and stunted forest, to Estancia Harberton — the oldest farm in Tierra del Fuego, founded 1886 and still worked by the same family.

midday

Crossing to Isla Martillo, and the landing

Ten minutes by launch, then about an hour on a marked path along the beach. Around three thousand pairs of Magellanic penguins nest here, with a small resident group of gentoos; by late November the chicks are out. Flat, slow, and the guide sets the pace.

EASY · 1 H · FLAT

Back in Ushuaia · evening free

If you want more, the Martial Glacier chairlift and the Presidio maritime museum are both a short taxi away and neither needs booking.

SAT 21 NOV Ushuaia → Buenos Aires → Santiago

Arrive Santiago, evening

morning

Transfer to Ushuaia airport

Ten minutes. Bags checked through to Santiago.

Ushuaia → Buenos Aires Aeroparque

About three and a half hours, Aerolíneas Argentinas.

Connection at Aeroparque

Same airport, same airline, same ticket. No transfer across the city, no re-check.

Aeroparque → Santiago

About two and a quarter hours across the Andes. Sit on the left going west if the sky is clear — Aconcagua is on that side.

evening

Arrival in Santiago

A full day in hand before the 22nd. Hotel and airport transfer quoted as an option below.

WHERE YOU SLEEP · PATAGONIA

Four-star, double room, breakfast included. All three are chosen as much for where they stand as for what they are: in every town you can walk to dinner rather than order a taxi, which matters more on this trip than a larger room would.

NIGHTS 1-2

Xelena Hotel & Suites

El Calafate · Lago Argentino shore

Lake-facing, lift to every floor, a generous buffet breakfast with real vegetarian choice, and a fifteen-minute flat walk into town along the waterfront.

2 nights · double · B&B

NIGHTS 3-4

Hotel Destino Sur

El Chaltén · village centre

The most comfortable address in a village of hostels, with mountain-facing rooms, a spa and a heated pool for tired legs. Three minutes' walk to the restaurants.

2 nights · double · B&B

NIGHTS 5-7

Hotel Albatros

Ushuaia · facing the port

On the waterfront at the foot of the main street — the shortest walk to dinner of any hotel in Ushuaia, with the Beagle Channel out of the window.

3 nights · double · B&B

Or similar in the same category and location. We name the hotel we intend to book rather than a star rating, and we tell you if we have to change it.

QUOTATION 1 · WHAT THE GROUND COSTS

These are supplier prices — what the hotels, the airlines, the guides and the boats charge. On Plans 2 and 3 we make every one of these bookings for you and you pay each supplier directly, in your own name, at exactly the price below. We never hold your money and we take nothing out of these figures. Tourevo's own fee is the plan you choose, further down.

THU 3 DEC Santiago to the middle of the Pacific

Night 1 · Hanga Roa

morning Santiago → Mataverí (IPC)

About five and a half hours west, LATAM. The island is two hours behind Santiago in December, so you land in the early afternoon with the day still ahead of you.

on arrival Welcome and transfer

Met with the traditional shell necklace and driven to the hotel — nowhere in Hanga Roa is more than eight minutes from the runway.

afternoon Nothing scheduled

Five and a half hours in the air is enough for one day.

19:30 Ahu Tahai at sunset · with your guide

Ten minutes on foot from town, on flat grass by the sea: five moai in a row, one with its white coral eyes restored, silhouetted as the sun goes into the Pacific behind them. The gentlest possible introduction, and the one photograph everyone keeps.

VERY EASY · FLAT

FRI 4 DEC The east — the quarry, the fifteen, and the white beach

Night 2 · Hanga Roa

09:00 Pick-up · shared full day, English-speaking guide

The one full day of the three. Everything else is a half.

09:45 Rano Raraku · the quarry

The volcano where every moai on the island was cut, and where nearly four hundred remain — standing in the grass, half-emerged from the rock, one still lying twenty-one metres long and unfinished. We take the lower circuit, which is the gentle one; the crater rim is optional and your guide will tell you honestly whether it is worth it that day.

MODERATE · GRAVEL PATHS · OPTIONAL CLIMB

12:00 Ahu Tongariki

Fifteen moai restored on the largest platform ever built on the island, backed by the ocean and the quarry they came from. A flat five-minute walk from the vehicle.

VERY EASY · FLAT

13:30 Te Pito Kura and the Papa Vaka petroglyphs

The largest moai ever moved from the quarry, now fallen, and the magnetic stone beside it. Then the carved canoes and tuna hooks cut into flat rock by the road.

15:00 Anakena • lunch and the afternoon

White coral sand and imported palms, with Ahu Nau Nau — the best-preserved moai on the island, buried in sand for centuries and therefore barely weathered — standing behind the beach. Swim if you want to; the water is 23°C in December.

17:30 Back in Hanga RoaSAT 5 DEC The south — the crater and the birdman village*Night 3 • Hanga Roa*09:00 Pick-up • shared half day, English-speaking guide*09:30 Rano Kau

A kilometre-wide crater filled with a reed lake, with the rim broken open on the ocean side. One of the great views in the Pacific and you reach it from the car park in five level minutes. VERY EASY

10:30 Orongo ceremonial village

Fifty-three stone houses on the knife-edge between the crater and a 300-metre cliff, where the birdman competition was decided each spring. The petroglyph panel above the sea is the densest on the island. Level gravel path, handrails at the exposed points.

EASY • FLAT GRAVEL12:15 Ana Kai Tangata

The sea cave under the cliff with birdman paintings still on the ceiling.

13:30 Back in Hanga Roa • afternoon free

The Padre Sebastián Englert museum is ten minutes' walk and genuinely good — it is where the rongorongo tablets and the one female moai are explained. Otherwise: the craft market, the harbour, and lunch that takes as long as you want.

SUN 6 DEC The west — topknots, the seven, and the lava tubesNight 4 • Hanga Roa*09:00 Pick-up • shared half day, English-speaking guide*09:30 Puna Pau

The small red scoria crater where the pukao — the topknots that sit on the moai heads — were quarried. A dozen of them still lie on the slope where they were abandoned. EASY • SHORT RISE

10:45 Ahu Akivi

Seven moai inland, and the only ones on the island that face the sea. They are aligned to the equinox sunset, which is either navigation or astronomy or memory depending on which archaeologist you ask. Your guide will give you all three. VERY EASY • FLAT

11:45

Ana Te Pahu

A collapsed lava tube used as a shelter and still planted with banana and taro in its floor.

We go as far as the light does; no scrambling.

EASY · UNEVEN GROUND

12:45

Ahu Vinapu

The wall of fitted basalt blocks that looks so much like Cusco that it started a century of argument about who reached this island first. A good place to end, because it leaves you with the question.

MON 7 DEC Rapa Nui → Santiago

Arrive Santiago, late evening

morning

Free until check-out

Enough time for the harbour, the market, or a last hour at Tahai.

midday

Transfer to Mataverí airport

Eight minutes. The airport asks for two hours; on this island that is genuinely necessary, because there is only one flight.

afternoon

Mataverí → Santiago

Around four and three-quarter hours eastbound — faster than the outbound, with the wind behind. Arrival in Santiago late evening.

night

Santiago

Hotel and airport transfer quoted as an option below, for your international flight home on the 8th.

OUR RECOMMENDATION · QUOTED BELOW

Hotel Puku Vai
Hanga Roa · 4-star

The most consistently well-run four-star on the island: ground-floor rooms available on request, garden and pool, air conditioning that works in December, and a breakfast where being vegetarian is not a negotiation. Ten minutes' flat walk to the harbour.

4 nights · double · B&B

IF YOU WOULD RATHER STEP UP

Nayara Hangaroa
Hanga Roa · 5-star

Built in the form of the Orongo village, low stone volumes into the hillside above the sea, with a spa and the best restaurant on the island. Different in kind rather than degree. We can re-quote on request.

Supplement on application

Or similar in the same category and location. Note that “four-star” on Rapa Nui is not the same product as four-star in Santiago; we choose on what the hotel actually delivers, not on the plaque.

🕒 22 NOVEMBER - 3 DECEMBER

Your two segments leave eleven days between them, from your arrival in Santiago on the 22nd to your departure for Rapa Nui on the 3rd. You have not told us what fills that window, and we have not assumed — the quotations above cover only what you asked for.

If those days are already committed, ignore this. If they are not, they are the best-placed eleven days in your whole trip, and we would be glad to quote any of the following as a third segment at the same shared-excursion, four-star standard: the Atacama Desert (geysers, salt flats, flamingo lagoons — but note the altitude, which we would want to discuss first); the Chilean Lake District around Puerto Varas and Chiloé; Valparaíso and the Casablanca wine valley, two easy nights from Santiago; or Chilean Patagonia and Torres del Paine, which is the natural companion to what you are already doing on the Argentine side.

Tell us which, if any, interests you and we will send it as a separate quotation.

THE DETAIL

What the ground cost covers

- All accommodation as listed, four-star, double room, breakfast every day.
- All flights listed — the three Patagonia legs and the Rapa Nui return, economy, with one checked bag each.
- All airport and intercity transfers, private, with a meet-and-greet at every arrival.
- Every excursion named, shared basis, with an English-speaking guide throughout.
- The End of the World Train ticket, the Safari Náutico boat, and the Isla Martillo landing permit.
- Who does the booking, and who looks after you while you travel, is not on this list — that is what the three plans decide.

Not included

- International flights to and from South America, and your flight into El Calafate on 14 November. We are happy to quote these separately.
- Rapa Nui National Park ticket — approximately USD 80 per person, bought on arrival, valid ten days. Admits you once to Rano Raraku and once to Orongo.
- Argentine park entrances — Los Glaciares and Tierra del Fuego, roughly USD 30 per person per park, paid at the gate.
- Lunches, dinners and drinks, except where stated.
- Travel insurance, which we would ask you to arrange, and anything personal.

Vegetarian, in two countries that are not

- We tell every hotel and every excursion at the time of booking, not on the day. On the Lago del Desierto excursion and at the Rapa Nui dinner, the menu is fixed and set in advance — those are the two that must be flagged early, and we do.
- El Calafate and Ushuaia are straightforward. Both have long-established vegetarian and vegan kitchens, and we will give you a short list per town rather than a generic one.
- El Chaltén is the easiest of the three — it is a climbers' village, and climbers eat like this.
- Hanga Roa needs a little more care. The island's food is fish-led; the hotel breakfast is well stocked, and we will name the three restaurants that do this properly.
- Tell us about eggs, dairy and onion/garlic and we will pass that on precisely. It is a different brief in each case and we would rather ask than guess.

Things to know

- 2026 flight schedules are not fully published yet. The times above reflect the seasons these routes have operated. We confirm exact schedules the moment we hold your seats, and if a timing changes the shape of a day, we will redesign the day and tell you why.
- Patagonian spring is windy. Mid-November brings roughly sixteen hours of daylight and genuinely changeable weather. Layers, a windproof shell, and a hat that stays on.
- Isla Martillo landings are capped by permit and sell out months ahead. This is the line we book first.
- Rapa Nui entry formalities: an online entry form, proof of accommodation and a return ticket are all checked before you board in Santiago. We prepare and send you the whole pack.
- Elevation: nothing in either quotation goes above 700 m. Should you take up the Atacama suggestion above, that changes, and we would want to talk it through first.

☆ THE TOUREVO HALLMARK

Pace before quantity

Every day here has one main thing in it, not three. That is a design decision, and it is the one we would defend hardest.

Shared where shared is better

You asked for group excursions and we have quoted them — they cost less and, on these particular routes, they are run by the best operators. We say so where private would genuinely be worth the difference.

Every change explained

Nothing has been altered from your email without being written down, argued for, and left for you to refuse.

We stay close

WhatsApp open before and throughout — the same person, from this message to the airport.

Local knowledge

We are a Chilean DMC operating our own services. We know which boat is which, and which permit runs out first.

No surprises at the gate

Park fees, entry forms, single-entry tickets and permit caps are all set out above, before you pay, not discovered on the day.

Everything above is the trip. This is the part you buy from us, and where the planning starts — how far we go depends on which of the three you choose. The fee is fixed for both segments: not a percentage of your trip, and it does not move with what you spend on the ground.

The plan

The thinking, written down. You take it from there and book everything yourself.

US$ 760

fixed, for the whole trip · for the two of you

- This document, finished — the thirteen travelling days, the alternatives, the reasoning behind each one
- Who to book with and who to avoid, by name, for every service in both segments
- The booking order and the deadlines: the Isla Martillo landing permit, the Rapa Nui park entries, the El Calafate-Ushuaia flight, the Aerolíneas connection through Aeroparque
- Weather windows, walking distances, the vegetarian briefing notes, and what to pack for a Patagonian November and a Rapa Nui December
- Two rounds of revisions on the itinerary
- We do not contact any supplier on your behalf
- No assistance once you are travelling

Everything you need to run this trip without us — including who to call.

MOST PEOPLE WANT THIS

PLAN 2

The plan, booked

We make every reservation for you. You pay each supplier directly, in your name.

US$ 1.440

fixed, for the whole trip · for the two of you

- Everything in Plan 1
- We book all of it — hotels, every flight in both segments, guides, the Safari Náutico, the penguin landing, the park entries, the transfers
- You pay each supplier directly, at their price. We never hold your money
- The paperwork handled: the Rapa Nui entry form, park tickets named to passports, the Isla Martillo permit and its daily quota
- Re-booking and changes through the whole planning phase, unlimited
- One document with every confirmation code, in order, on your phone
- No dedicated assistance during the trip beyond emergencies

The one that removes the work without removing your control of the money.

The plan, booked, and watched

Everything above, plus a Tourevo host on the other end of WhatsApp from landing to departure.

US$ 2.380

fixed, for the whole trip · for the two of you

- Everything in Plan 2
- A Tourevo host reachable on WhatsApp, 08:00 to midnight, every day you are travelling — in Argentina and on Rapa Nui alike
- We watch the forecast and re-arrange days when the weather turns — before it costs you one
- We stay in constant contact with your suppliers to confirm what you have booked, and to see that it happens on time and as agreed
- If a supplier lets you down, we do everything we can to put it right. It is not entirely in our hands — it is a third party — but we will be there giving our best to find a solution, as far as one exists
- We keep in touch as much as is useful and no more. We are not going to interrupt a good moment out there; the point is that you enjoy it

For a trip with one date that cannot move, and Patagonian weather that can rewrite a day at breakfast.

On the plan fee: it is fixed at the figure shown and covers both segments. It does not move with what you spend on the ground, and we take no commission out of the supplier prices in this document. You can move up a plan at any point during planning and pay only the difference.

On the ground prices: they are quoted on current tariffs and are indicative until each supplier confirms. Air fares and hotel availability for November and December 2026 move with demand and are held only against payment — which, on Plans 2 and 3, you make directly to the supplier at the moment we tell you it is time. We will always show you the price before you pay it.

Two things and we can start: tell us which recommendations you accept and which you would rather we drop, and pick a plan. Then we hold Isla Martillo first, and everything else in the order it needs.
